Russell Steinthal has experience with the full range of the group's practice, including litigation, merger-related work and corporate counseling. Russell routinely counsels clients on a wide variety of antitrust issues, ranging from cutting-edge issues at the interplay of antitrust and patent law to the intricacies of the Hart-Scott-Rodino pre-merger notification rules. In addition, he has been a lead antitrust attorney on numerous major transactions, including the $67 billion merger of AT&T and BellSouth, A&P's $679 million acquisition of Pathmark, Ball Corporation's $577 million acquisition of beverage can manufacturing plants from ABI/InBev, Bemis's $1.2 billion acquisition of Alcan Packaging Food Americas and Google's $700 million acquisition of ITA Software and its $12.5 billion acquisition of Motorola Mobility.

Russell was also the lead associate on the Axinn team that spent more than a year intensively counseling MasterCard's board of directors in the lead-up to its 2006 IPO. The IPO transformed MasterCard from a membership association of banks into a publicly-traded company and marked an important milestone in the credit card industry, which had faced a wave of antitrust challenges to its prior structure.

Russell is a member of the Antitrust Section of the American Bar Association and the New York City Bar Association. As a member of the latter's Antitrust and Trade Regulation

Committee, he has spoken on well-received panels on both SEP enforcement and the antitrust issues posed by patent assertion entities.
